The Roman Emperor Augustus determined to find out the truth about what Camel Drivers continually extolled in their remote countries. He instructed Aelius GALLUS to fit out a military expedition and to satisfy himself on the spot as to the truth of these incredible tales about South Arabia. With an army of 10,000 Roman Soldiers Gallus marched south from Egypt and proceeded along

At the death of the Red Sea. Now, the legendary capital city, was his goal, but he never reached it. For in the pitiless heat of the dead after and long marches with wild tribes dominated by ferocious beasts, his army went to pieces; the few survivors who reached their native land again had no reliable factual details about the legendary shores of "Arabia Felix".
